At press time, ALL VISITATION IS RESTRICTED for the protection of residents' health.

Letter from the Administrator

Dear Holton Manor residents and families:

I'm happy to say that the Walworth County Health Department has declared Holton Manor out of outbreak status. What does this mean exactly? It means that we have gone 28 days without any staff or residents presenting with symptoms of COVID-19 or positive test results.

Going forward we will continue to follow all the state and federal guidelines regarding COVID-19 for long-term care facilities. Our hope is that we will have direction soon from our state officials regarding visitors. In the meantime, we did perform testing on all residents and staff to establish a baseline for our facility. We were able to test most of our staff and residents and all returned with a negative result. This continues to be a delicate situation and we want to be sure that we are keeping our resident's safety a number one priority.

COVID-19 is still prevalent in Walworth County so it's essential that we proceed with caution. As soon as we have information available to us regarding visitors, we will be in touch with you. I want to remind you again that we have staff available to help facilitate phone calls, emailing, letters, and video chatting. Window visits are still permitted. With the weather improving, you will be tempted to open the window for your visit. I ask that you cooperate with the state guidelines on window visits and please keep the window closed.

Regards,

Jessica Kuhart, BSN, RN, NHA

Elkhorn students featured for their work at Holton Manor

Abigale Greenwald poses in front of Holton Manor for a GazetteXtra article entitled, "COVID-19 outbreak at Holton Manor doesn't stop Elkhorn students from working." The May 17th article featured Abigale and her friend, Kaylee Bakko, both of whom work at Holton Manor: Abigale as a CNA and Kaylee as an activity aide.
